EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF ST. ANDREW ST. ANDREWS.

THE present EPISCOPAL CHURCH at ST. ANDREW'S is now quite incapable of meeting the rapidly-increasing demand for Seats, and, under the circumstances, it is proposed to quit the present structure, and to erect a new one upon a more commodious site.

For many centuries St. Andrews was the ecclesiastical metropolis of Scotland, is still the seat of her oldest University, and a chief centre of her educational institutions, besides being one of the most frequented Watering Places in the Kingdom. Upon these and other accounts, it was felt that the Church to be erected should not only be spacious, but an ornament to the ancient city,—so full of ecclesiastical and historical recollections. The alumni of the University in particular in all quarters of the world, and others who have derived either relaxation or instruction from residence in St. Andrews, are earnestly requested to contribute to the good work, towards which the sum of £1,800 has already been received from Members of the Church in this country, and other sources. The foundation stone of the building was laid on the 31st of July, 1867, and the structure has already made considerable progress, but funds are still much wanted, and the Incumbent and Vestry appeal with confidence to their countrymen in distant lands, who have a prospect of returning to their own with riches and honour, to assist in the erection of this building, to be dedicated to God's holy worship.

Subscriptions will be thankfully received by—

RECENT EVENTS.

From the "China Overland Trade Report."

SHORTLY after the departure of the last mail, news arrived by the steamer United Service that the Hesperia, the overdue P. & O. steamer from Shanghai, had been wrecked on an island of the Fisherman's Group on the night of the 23rd. At noon on that day the vessel had started from Shanghai, and at about 11.15 P.M. she struck. The engines were backed full speed astern, but failed to get the ship off. She remained aground in spite of all efforts to float her, but fortunately she made no water. The crew and passengers were in no danger until, as the tide receded, the vessel began to heel over to starboard. It was feared that she might capsize altogether, and all hands were ordered into the boats. The night was inky, and all that could be done was to lie off the wreck, and wait for morning. During the night three of the boats were driven out to sea. When morning broke it showed the ship still above water, lying over on her side at an angle of 45 degrees. The boats which had succeeded in keeping near the shore now felt their way in among the rocks, and all who were in them safely effected a landing, and made their way to a small patch of level ground, about 30 feet above high water mark. The remaining boats could not then be seen. In this disagreeable situation the shipwrecked party spent six hours, when the steamer China, from Shanghai, came in sight. At first they imagined that she did not see them, as she stood away out to sea instead of coming in shore to their assistance, but in reality she had descried, cut at sea, the three missing boats, and had gone to their assistance first. Having picked up them, she came in and anchored near the stranded vessel. All hands were immediately received on board the China, and two pilot boats which made their appearance at this period were sent on to Shanghai, the other to Ningpo, with the news of what had occurred. During the day the weather changed for the worse, and the China found it necessary to go round to the other side of the island for shelter. The Chinese in the neighbourhood took advantage of this to come down and board the Hesperia. They were even meeting over the hills in all directions when the week was visited next day by the boats of the China. During the 25th the weather again moderated. The China came round and began the recovery of cargo. It was found that the specie was nearly all safe. The baggage was mostly recovered, and a quantity of silk. During the 26th the process of salvage was continued. On the 27th the French gunboat Scorpion arrived, and then the steamer United Service, which received back on board the mails and some of the passengers, and brought them on to Hongkong, where they arrived on the 30th.

The Northern news which goes forward by the present mail is rather more interesting than usual, and that from Japan, somewhat startling. It seems that just before the mail left Yokohama, news had been received from Yeddo to the effect that a party of ronins belonging to the Tokugawa clan—the late Shogun's family—had made their way into the palace, and murdered the high emissary from the MIKADO, who had been sent to assume the government. This is the latest news received, and it is unaccompanied by any comment, which might elucidate the situation. It is difficult to believe, however, that the assassination can have been committed with the cognizance of the late Tycoon, who had given evidence in various ways of a sincere submission to the MIKADO. The Daimios ARIMA and SATSMA were still in arms, and in the occupation of territory where they could not easily be attacked.

In SHANGHAI a further dispatch from Sir RUTHERFORD ALCOCK on the subject of his accusation against DENT & Co. has just been published. This is written as a reply to the indignant explanation of the consurrence referred to, which was given immediately on the publication of Sir RUTHERFORD'S first dispatch. It is deeply to be regretted that the Minister has not seen fit, upon more full all the circumstances have been explained, and the perfect innocence of DENT & Co. in the matter established, to offer any frank apology for the unjust suspicion he cast upon the firm. In a long wrangling document, he endeavours now to show that even if DENT & Co. were guilty of any intention to defraud the revenue, the passage of the tea refuse as tea dust—in accordance, it will be remembered, with a special permission to that effect from the Commissioner of Customs at Hankow,—was a fraud upon the revenue nevertheless. It is needless to point out to every one who has followed the course of this little incident that such a line of defence is the weakest Sir RUTHERFORD could have chosen, firstly because the view of the Hankow translation, which he endeavours to establish, is a complete distortion of the case, and secondly, because even if it could be established, it would not affect the major injustice contained in the first dispatch. In that it will be remembered Sir RUTHERFORD took this alleged fraud as the text of a sermon on iniquitous practices, addressed to the whole body of British merchants in China. You pretend, he said in effect, to accuse the Chinese of bad faith! How do you dare do so when you are all stained with the disgrace of that wicked business at Hankow perpetrated by DENT & Co.? Then when the supposed wickedness of the transaction referred to melts away, even by Sir RUTHERFORD'S admission, all he can find to say is that whether fraud was intended or not, the result to Sir RUTHERFORD'S despatch on the revision of the Treaties, is published in the Northern papers:—

PEKING, May 24th, 1868.

SIR,—Referring to my circular of the 17th February, I now enclose a further correspondence with the Prince of KUNG, concerning certain modifications which H.I.H. deems it necessary to make founded upon Mr. HART'S report that merchants have erroneously concluded the reduction of duty already notified for Tea dust not exceeding 15 taels per picul in value applied equally to Tea-leaf of such inferior quality as to be of value below that amount.

I do not myself see the necessity for fixing the maximum value in dealing with an article so well known, and especially different from every kind of inferior Tea-leaf or refuse; and there is abundant evidence that it has introduced confusion in the minds of the merchants, who seem to have "erroneously concluded," as the Prince remarks, that the arrangement by which a duty of Tls 1.25 only was to be levied on Tea-dust valued at not more than 15 taels per picul, extends to like quality of Tea-leaf—or any inferior Tea mixture of similar value. But as this confusion of ideas must at all events be officially provided against now, I have not thought it necessary to press my objection.

In connection with this question of Tea dust, I have received, under private cover, a printed copy of a letter addressed to the Editor of the North-China Daily News by Messrs. Dent and Co., complaining of the statement contained in the Prince of KUNG'S official letter, accompanying my circular of the 17th of February, as also of my reference to it and the public course of their house, which it is supposed to convey.

I do not feel called upon to notice what any firm or individual may see fit to address to the papers in regard to my public acts; but in the present instance I am unwilling to omit for direct appeal to me, and will at once answer the complaint. Should any injustice have been done Messrs. Dent and Co., I am quite ready to redress the wrong. If, on the other hand, I have no error to rectify, and have in the discharge of a public duty given expression or circulation to nothing but the truth, it is no loss necessary, now that the facts on which the Prince's report and my own comments were founded are called in question, that these should be substantiated.

The statement of the Prince of KUNG is to the effect that "in July, 1866, Messrs. Dent and Co. shipped 591 loads of Tea at Hankow, for which they paid only half the proper duty, representing it to be Tea-dust, a falsification which was discovered by the Customs officials on examination," and believing this to be true in all essential particulars, but regarding it as a matter long since terminated, I referred to it in general terms as "an attempt at Hankow by one of the large mercantile firms to pass a chop of Tea as dust on the payment of the half or reduced duty," by which the High Authorities had been deterred for nearly two years from sanctioning a permanent reduction.

Are these facts? and if so, upon what evidence does the plain statement of them given in the Prince of KUNG'S communication rest? All else is beside the question and more or less irrelevant.

Now, whatever may be the margin such a statement allows for possible misconstructions or misapprehensions, the main evidence and integrity of both parties—it is necessary to bear what M. GIQUEL has to say on the subject, before any and conclusions can be arrived at; more particularly as regards the so-called special negotiation with the Commissioner and a third party not directly connected with the shipment.

It appears by the Custom House records and correspondence on the subject, that in September, 1866, M. GIQUEL wrote to the then Acting Inspector General, Mr. PIZZEY, to the effect that he had never given authority to ship anything but "Tea-dust." Orally, that he had obtained no sanction at any time from his colleague, the Commissioner at Hankow, to ship but Tea-dust "orally, that Mr. RINGER had in the Mercantile Hall, with the following note:—"The question of duty on Tea-dust is at last settled, you can ship such goods by paying only Tls. 1.25; return the master you sent me." Without pronouncing any opinion upon that particular transaction as such by the Custom-house at the reduced duty. Thus, however, is a matter of opinion.

The Commissioner goes on to report that while this matter was in his office, Mr. EVANS came and asked if shipping such goods he would pay Tls. 1.25, and Mr. GIQUEL replied "if it is Tea dust." Upon which the application all ready referred to was made for shipping "Tea dust." He further reports that although Mr. RINGER had heard from him that he wanted a number of Tea dusts, and in all of conversations with Mr. RINGER he never spoke of anything but Tea dust, yet when the latter sent him was Tea, he refuse tea.

I think a very plain inference, and one only can fairly be drawn from these more or less conflicting statements, and it is this: That by unobtrusively mixing together things not identical, or having any certain or necessary connection with each other, it may have been possible for Mr. EVANS to jump at a conclusion and get his Tea-dust as it is granted he might state together all kinds of refuse or inferior Tea as so much Tea dust, and count either upon such laxity of examination or of interpretation on the part of the Custom House people as would enable him to pass shipments of this nature on payment of the newly reduced duty specifically limited to Tea dust.

Having allowed this much, on the most liberal interpretation I can give both to the facts and the statements, it now remains to be considered whether Messrs. Dent and Co. have any foundation for their complaint that a false charge has brought against them, and that they have just cause of remonstrance on account of any reference to the transaction as officially reported by the Prince of KUNG.

In the report it has been stated that Messrs. Dent and Co., "shipped 591 loads of tea at Hankow, for which they paid only half the proper duty, representing it to be tea dust, a falsification which was discovered by the Custom Officials on examination."

Can there be any doubt that they did so, by their agent, Mr. EVANS? I am sorry to have to return to the subject, but, being concerned to do so, I must express my conviction that the Prince of KUNG'S statement of the transaction is literally and strictly true in every particular, and this conviction is based upon written evidence and proof which, apart from Messrs. Dent and Co.'s admissions, admit of no question. Mr. EVANS' signature is there to avouch the main fact, and in the letter of Messrs. Dent and Co. given to the press, they admit that to this day the amount of duty short paid under a false declaration of the description of article taxed—has never been refunded. Whether it went to their own credit or that of a constituent is quite immaterial to the issue. The Revenue was defrauded to that amount.

As to my comments in the circular to which exception is taken, they are prefaced by a reservation, in so far as the Tea dust was concerned, that the whole transaction "may possibly have been the unauthorized act of some agent or subordinate." It is for Messrs. Dent and Co. to defend the Revenue, though the result was practically the same, and entailed the loss upon the Revenue.

I avail, &c.,
R. ALCOCK.

Preparations at Turin.

(From the "Times" Correspondent.)

April 19th.

It is pleasant to see this ancient and dejected capital resuming the holyday garb she so frequently and willingly wore in her bygone days of prosperity. Turin has always been a self-dependent city; the consciousness of her worth upheld her even in her darkest hours, and now, under the double stimulus of pride and affection, she prepares a hospitable and splendid welcome to the numerous guests who gather to celebrate the nuptials of her Sovereign's heir. And she does so the more willingly because the bride is one of her own children, the development of whose graces and virtues she has watched from the cradle upwards. The amiable and sterling qualities of the Princess Margaret could not fail to endear her to the good will manifested upon this occasion. Quiet down, without fault of her own, from the proud position she had valiantly won and temporarily maintained as capital of the new kingdom of Italy, Turin has not yet had time to recover from the shock or forget the humiliation. Oblivion is the barrier which the first freshness of the sacrifice. It was made to promote unity, to propitiate those provinces (especially the Southern ones) which cried out against Piedmontese preponderance, and to get rid of the French from Italian soil. These were the objects of which the attainment was announced as certain to proceed from the Convention of September, 1864, and, behold, in April, 1868, the French are at Rome, and Neapolitans and Piedmontese combine in the Chamber to oppose the policy of the party which made the convention. The sole satisfaction the old capital has since enjoyed has been to hear many deplore the change who at the time applauded it, and to see how little Florence has done to repair the mischief in the money market. In spite of past and recent discontent, of heavy taxation, depression of property, and workmen's strikes, the famous old Piedmontese will think that now, if ever, is the moment to cast aside cares and heartburnings, and to pluck up spirits and make a supreme effort to celebrate splendidly a great event in the family of her King. Let the deposed capital come out, and in all her former bravery, resolved it shall not be said that the marriage table of her princess was meanly furnished for the royal guests and their numerous suites. The municipality has shown itself no niggard in providing the ways and means of a great celebration. The expenses of the festivities have been estimated at 700,000*l.*, but I hear it said they will probably amount to a million,—no small sum for this impoverished city. On all sides are evidences of outlay. On a large and more magnificent scale than I remember ever before to have witnessed, preparations are making for those bountiful illuminations for which Turin has long been celebrated. In Florence, on such occasions, the river and the ancient buildings of the city are employed with the happiest effect. Thousands of lights reflected in the now furnished by a renewal of the same mistake, and attempts to pass inferior Tea of low value as Tea-dust under the reduced duty. The instances must be leaving the High Authorities to doubt of the wisdom of the step taken in reducing the duty on the latter article. I do not propose to draw any distinction or classification of the case made with advantage, allowing the spurious or refuse article of low value, for which it seems there is some demand among the Chinese to be exported, at a reduced duty. But I wish the merchants in their own interest could be persuaded in this and all similar cases, to take what is offered them in the plain and obvious sense of the words, and not by trying to pass an evasion, clearly limited to one specific article, a different kind of merchandize, certainly not intended to be included, and so jeopardize the advantage already gained, besides raising new difficulties in the way of any further relaxation of existing tariff rates.

You will give publicity to the enclosed correspondence, or else to this despatch, for general information.

The Prince of KUNG makes the following communication:—

On the 3rd of 4th moon (25th April), the Yamen received a statement from Mr. HART to the effect that merchants have erroneously concluded that the arrangement by which a duty of Tls. 1.25 only was to be levied on Tea dust not exceeding 15 taels per picul extended to like quality of Tea leaf. Fearing a loss of Customs' Revenue, Mr. HART suggested as a modification that Tea dust of the value of not more than ten taels a picul carried construe, who shall pay a duty of taels 1.25, but that if valued at or higher value than ten taels a picul it shall pay a duty of taels 2.5.0.

At the close of last year the Yamen, in consideration of the great difference of the natural values of Tea leaf and Tea dust, notified to Your Excellency a reduction of duty on the latter article.

To prevent the complication consequent upon this desire of the merchants to pass Tea leaf of a value not exceeding 15 taels per picul at the duty of taels 1.2.5 per picul; the regulations must be made more specific, and in the interests of the Revenue a distinction must be made in the case of exported Tea dust.

Mr. HART has been instructed, therefore, that in future, as he suggests, the duty on Tea dust worth one more than ten taels a picul and carried construe will be Taels 1.2.5 a picul; when, though not worth more than ten taels a picul, it is exported, and when being worth more than ten taels a picul, it is carried construe, a duty of Tls. 2.5.0 per picul will be levied. This arrangement will alike benefit the Revenue and the merchant.

I beg that Your Excellency will direct the merchants to comply therewith.

A necessary communication addressed to Sir R. Alcock.

4th (intercalary) moon, 1st day.

PEKING, May 23rd, 1868.

SIR,—On the subject of Tea-dust, and the modifications which, on Mr. HART'S representation of the danger of misapprehension, your Imperial Highness deems it necessary to adopt in giving effect to the reduction of duty already announced, I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your official communication, dated the 22nd instant, and to submit the following observations in reply.

It is proposed, I perceive, to fix the maximum of value at 10 taels per picul instead of 15 taels, and to limit the reduction of duty to such Tea-dust only as shall be carried construe, to the exclusion, therefore, of any that may be shipped to a foreign port.

As shipments of Tea-dust for foreign ports are not usual, the changes in the rule will not curtail any of the real privileges which in the first instance it was intended to secure to merchants. I have no objection to offer. And in reference to the altered rate of valuation to 10 taels, Tea-dust being an article never averaging so high, it seems indifferent whether 10 taels or 15 taels be the figure adopted. But seeing that "Tea-dust," and even the most inferior kinds of Tea-leaf, or leaf and stalk mixed, are essentially different articles, and those engaged in the Tea trade can never mistake the one for the other, though they may be equally low in price, there would seem to be no necessity for fixing a limit for the valuation of the former. As this no doubt has tended hitherto to lead to the misapprehension to which Your Imperial Highness refers on the part of the merchants, that very inferior or refuse teas within the value fixed might indifferently be shipped on the same terms as Tea-dust, I cannot help thinking it would have been better to have made simply a reduction of duty on the specific article "Tea-dust" irrespective of any valuation, as less liable to misconstruction. If any merchant should present bales of or any combination of leaf and stalk which was not "Tea-dust," and under false declaration to that effect, it would be in the power of the Custom House officers on examination and discovery of the fraud to stop the shipment, and proceed against the shipper according to Treaty, such goods being liable to confiscation.

I make this observation on the valuation clause, simply because the less room there is for any possible misconstruction or misapprehension on the part of the merchants as to the meaning of a rule, the better it is for him and the Revenue likewise. There seems to have been both misconstruction and misunderstanding in the case of Messrs. Dent & Co., to which Your Imperial Highness referred in your communication of the 25th December, 1867, rather than any design on the part of their Agent to defraud the Revenue, though the result was practically the same, and entailed the loss upon the Revenue.

I avail, &c.,

Preparations at Turin.

April 19th.

It is pleasant to see this ancient and dejected capital resuming the holyday garb she so frequently and willingly wore in her bygone days of prosperity. Turin has always been a self-dependent city; the consciousness of her worth upheld her even in her darkest hours, and now, under the double stimulus of pride and affection, she prepares a hospitable and splendid welcome to the numerous guests who gather to celebrate the nuptials of her Sovereign's heir. And she does so the more willingly because the bride is one of her own children, the development of whose graces and virtues she has watched from the cradle upwards. The amiable and sterling qualities of the Princess Margaret could not fail to endear her to the good will manifested upon this occasion. Quiet down, without fault of her own, from the proud position she had valiantly won and temporarily maintained as capital of the new kingdom of Italy, Turin has not yet had time to recover from the shock or forget the humiliation. Oblivion is the barrier which the first freshness of the sacrifice. COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE.

Hongkong, Thursday Evening.

The Drug market continues in a very unsatisfactory state, the native demand for the present being very limited. Notwithstanding better advices from Shanghai for every description of Drugs, it appears that a selling, almost amounting to a panic, has taken hold of some importers, and the result is the placing of considerable quantities upon the market, entirely irrespective of the cost, and plainly showing a loss of between $50 and $60 a chest. This might easily have been averted by a combination on the part of large holders to keep out of the market for a time. There has been a decline of about $25 a chest from the highest point since the arrival of the Calcutta steamers. At the opening of the market this morning new Patna was placed on credit terms to the natives at $647, and subsequently at $645, declining to $629 on cash terms. So long as the opium brokers are encouraged by merchants to operate in their own name, and on their own account by simultaneous purchases and sales at different rates, the drug market must continue to rule more unfavourably for importers.

The following may be taken as the closing prices, with more sellers than buyers on cash terms:—New Patna $646 to $642½ cash, and $645 to $640 to arrive on 3 weeks' time; Benares $630 to $623, quite nominal. Malwa $600 to $605, good drug wanted by the natives.

The following fortnightly review of the markets is from the "Overland Trade Report" of this date:—

The market for manufactured imports has been exceedingly quiet during the past fortnight, and although the business done day to day has been of a trifling nature, values have nevertheless been well maintained at their former level, and the tone of the market, with only a single exception, Yarn, is unexceedingly firm, with perhaps if anything a slight upward tendency in some instances. This spirit for speculation seems to have almost entirely disappeared and the entire purchases of the foreigner have been without an exception for the supply of the demands for consumption. This state of affairs may to some extent be explained by the late decreases to hand per last English mail, causing a decline in the Manchester market, but probably this will only apply to foreign speculators, the movements of the native merchants having for a considerable time back been characterized by the same cautious policy which they now continue to exhibit. It is evident that they are buying no more than the actual requirements of the moment demand. A vein inclination to lay in stocks with the market at its present level, a confident belief that prices will shortly decline, and a tight money market just at present at Canton and other large interior cities, may perhaps to some extent explain their present policy, the wishes of which however can only be proved by the developments of the future. One unfavorable feature of the present fortnight's transactions is the absence of all demand for Yarn, not a single transaction being reported since the departure of last mail. The native idea is entirely due to the scarcity of money at Canton, where all the Yarn dealers reside; the present month being one of the customary periodical settling of accounts between the Chinese. Grey Shirtings have been in some request, and sales are in advance of those of the previous fortnight, $365 is the limit for 8¼ lbs. Cambrics are to a small extent in favor, and favorite chop have realized $1042. T Cloths have also been in fair demand, and dealers have shown a disposition to clear them, but the prices demanded than for Shirtings. The activity noticed in the last report for Woollens seems to have quite died out with the slight advance that took place in prices, and only a few trifling sales require to be noted. Just at the moment it is extremely difficult to hazard any speculation with regard to the future of this market, but it may be safely said that news of a further decline in the Manchester market would no doubt tend to weaken prices here very materially.

The arrivals of the past fortnight have been the Peter Denny and Dunmail, both from London, with general cargoes, and the steamer Dismal from Liverpool, but the latter vessel only brings a small quantity of goods for this place. The *Mai

The following may be taken as the closing prices, with more sellers than buyers on cash terms:—New Patna, $840 to $842½ cash, and $845 to $846 to arrive on 3 weeks' time, sixth sales drug Benares $830 to $832½, quite nominal. Malwa $860 to $865, good drug wanted by the natives.

The following fortnightly review of the markets is from the "Overland Trade Report" of this date:—

The market for manufactured imports has been exceedingly quiet during the past fortnight, and although the Issue from day to day has been of a trifling nature, values have nevertheless been well maintained at their former level, and the tone of the market, with only a single exception, Yarn, is exceedingly firm, with perhaps if anything a slight upward tendency in some instances. The spirit for speculation seems to have almost entirely disappeared, and the entire premises of the fortnight have been without an exception for the supply of the demands for consumption. This state of affairs may to some extent be explained by the late holidays in hand per last English mail, quoting a decline in the Manchester market, but probably this will only apply to foreign speculators, the movements of the native merchants having for a considerable time back been characterized by the same cautious policy which they now continue to exhibit. It is evident that they are buying no more than the actual requirements of the moment demand. A disinclination to lay in stocks with the market at its present level, a confident belief that prices will shortly decline, and a tight money market just at present at Canton and other large Interior cities, may perhaps to some extent explain their present policy, the wisdom of which however can only be proved by the developments of the future. One noticeable feature of the present fortnight's transactions is the abnormal call demand for Yarn, not a single transaction being reported since the departure of last mail. The natives say this is entirely due to the scarcity of money at Canton, where all the Yarn dealers reside, the present month being one of the customary periodical settling times so frequent with the Chinese. Grey Shirtings have been in some request, and sales are in advance of those of the previous fortnight. $3.65 is the limit for 8¼ lbs., although one or two small parcels of fine quality and favorite shop have realized $3.67½. T Cloths have also been in fair demand, and doubts have shown among willingness to come up to the prices demanded than for Shirtings. The activity noticed in the last report for Woollens seems to have quite died out with the slight advance that took place in prices, and only a few trifling sales have to be reported. And in the moment it is extremely difficult to hazard any speculation with regard to the future of this market, but it may be safely said that never of a further decline in the Manchester markets would no doubt tend to weaken prices here very materially.

The arrivals of the past fortnight have been the Peter Iredale and Diomed, both from London, with general cargoes, and the steamer Diomed from Liverpool, but the latter vessel only brings a small quantity of goods for this place. The Maiden Queen, Seacrest and Fair Venus will be due here the coming fortnight.

Grey Shirtings.—A fair quantity of these goods have been taken during the past fortnight, a large portion of which was of 7 lbs. for which the demand was perhaps more active than for the other makes. As high as $3.65 was in one instance paid for a fine parcel, while a large quantity were placed at $3.60. A small lot of Diomed found buyers at $3.55, which comprises the whole business in this weight. For 8¼ lbs the Chinese have been offering $3.06, beyond which they showed no inclination to go, and the majority of the goods placed have been at this figure, although a few of a favorite shop and fine quality fetched $3.09 and $3.07½. There has been some demand for the heavier weights, and being in only small supply remunerative prices have been realized. Transactions for the fortnight include 16,400 pieces, say 9,000 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.50, 8,000 pieces 8¼ lbs. at $3.05 to 3.10, 900 pieces 9 lbs. at $3.60, and 1,000 pieces 10 lbs. as $4.50 to $4.70.

White Shirtings.—The business of the fortnight in these goods has been entirely confined to the immediate requirements, say 50 to 60 bales, but only a small quantity have found buyers. Transactions foot up 8,400 pieces in all, at $1.60 to 3.80.

T-Cloths.—These goods continue in favor especially the finer qualities, which have been much sought after, and in most cases commanded full and remunerative prices. For 6 lbs. $3.05 has been readily obtained, and for 7 lbs. "shop mixture," $2.70 has been paid, and $2.60 for Mendle bank, at these figures the market is very firm, and goods on the spot would no doubt be taken at an advance, a number of the enquiries have been made for the article. The business of the fortnight amounts to 21,700 pieces, say 4,500 pieces 6 lbs. at $1.05 to 1.60, 16,150 pieces 7 lbs. at $2.45 to 2.70, and 1,300 pieces 8 lbs at $2.80 to 3.30.

Drills.—These goods are in demand. A small parcel of 1,376 pieces American have been placed at $2.40, an advance of 10 cents on the last quoted price, and there are further buyers in the market at this price.

Long Cottons.—There is scarcely anything to report with respect to these goods during the past fortnight. There has been no inquiry whatever for any description.

Woollens.—The activity which prevailed for these goods at close of last mail seems to have entirely disappeared, the advance then took place in rates having rendered here the name of pushing a step to all business. There have been a few dribbling sales, but the market for all kinds of woollens is quite dead. Transactions reported embrace 500 pieces Scarlet Long Ells at $11.0, 1,000 pieces Crepe Lastings at $12.75, 600 pieces assorted at $16.00 and 170 pieces Cashets at $16.50.

Cotton Yarns.—An outline of business in this article, not a sale being reported during the fortnight,—the rembrand the market weak, and this fact combined with the decline at Manchester is far from giving holders that firm tone which at present characterizes the rest of the market. The last sales were made at $153 for 16 to 16, but it is very doubtful whether anything like this price could now be obtained. The natives themselves explain the present depression by the tight condition of the Canton money market, consequent upon one of their quarterly settling periods, but if this be the only cause, it will soon remedy itself, at present any quotations must be entirely nominal.

Metals.—are dull, with little business. The sales reported include 130 piculs Nail Rod Iron at $5.01, 400 piculs Hoop at $3.15, 50 boxes Tin Plates at $7.15, 280 piculs Lead S. R. at $9.50, and 420 piculs Tin at $140.50.

Exchange.—Rates for last mail closed at 4s 8¼d. for Bank Bills, and 4s 8¾d. for Credits. Immediately on the departure of the mail bills were offered by the Bus a at 4s. 8¼d., but without buyers. Further advices from Foochow came to hand on the 3rd instant, and a large business was done in private bills at 4s. 6d. to 4s. 6¼d. On the 5th, a considerable amount of Bank paper was placed at 4s. 6d. (for remittance to India), and the rate for credits accordingly advanced to 4s. 6½. A still further advance took place on the 6th, when Bank bills were placed at 4s. 6⅝d. Rates are now firm at quotations, and the arrival of the Foochow steamer late this afternoon has placed more bills upon the market and still higher rates are therefore probable.

Tonnage.—At Shanghai the last fortnight has been marked during the whole of which little or no business appears to have resulted therefrom. The most remarkable feature in the course of exchange during the present period under review has been the unusual advance in paper rates, from Rs. 222 to 227. The estimated amount of business by the present opportunity amounts to about $700,000 say $270,000 Bank bills and $430,000 private paper and eighteen lakhs rupees.

Bullion.—The market is quite bare of Bar Silver, and in fact all kinds of bullion and there is but little enquiry owing to the considerable advance in rates of Exchange on India. The rates quoted below are therefore more or less nominal.

RETURN OF PROFESSOR WHEELER!!!

TO THE FOREIGN RESIDENTS OF HONGKONG.

AFTER a long European tour, undertaken for the especial purpose of bringing to China a preparation for the human hair, which will preserve it from the evil tendencies of this climate, and which I have called WHEELLERAN. I have re-established myself in Wellington Street, a few doors from Mons. Alexandre Beyer, and near the Roman Catholic Cathedral, where I shall be happy to receive my friends, and as many of the general public as will favour me with their patronage. As the solicitations of many who find it inconvenient to attend me at my place of business, and thereby suffer their heads to be disfigured by unskilled Hair Cutting, I shall call at the residence of any who may require my services.

In conclusion I beg most respectfully and particularly to call the attention of the ladies of Hongkong to the above named restorative for the hair, which only requires a trial to prove its efficacy.

LIST OF PRICES.

Hair Cutting	50 cents.
Shampooing	50 "
Shaving	25 "

N.B.—This establishment will be open to the public on Saturday next, June 13th, please note the address:—

An "Awful Sacrifice."

(From the "Times.")

The old Téméraire going to her last home is a magnificent expression of scenery and sentiment, but all the romance is taken out of Turner's painting by a little story just told to Parliament in the instance of Mr. Seely. The wooden walls of Old England are now going to their last homes in batches, and under circumstances by no means suggestive of any sentimental or pathetic considerations. It is about the most "awful sacrifice" of property that can well be imagined, and the case seems hardly bettered even by the reflection that the loss incurred in the nearest approach to gain which the bargain admits. The old Téméraire had, at any rate, done her duty, and her successors are sent off to the shipbreakers at the price of old timber, without, ever having been ranged in line of battle, or perhaps even sent to sea.

In the eight years between 1859 and 1867 upwards of 150 vessels of all rates and classes were sold out of the Navy for what they would fetch—thus being a very small amount indeed. Many of these were probably of little value, but just about this time last year a bargain was negotiated which really does seem distressingly hard. Seven first-of-battle ships and six large frigates were marked for sale. The list includes some of the most historic names of the British Navy. There were the Crecy, the Cressy, the Colossus, the Orion, the Saturn, the Majestic, the Hannibal, and the Sans Pareil—all powerful men-of-war, while the frigates were the Champagne, the Barrosa, the Inspirieuse, the Arrogant, the Termagant, and the Immortalité. If we reckon the original cost of these thirteen vessels at a million of money, we shall be grossly understating the case, and only to sell ships with restrictions, stipulating for the resale to Government of all metal marked with the broad arrow, and other Government stores specified in the contract. These conditions were designed as a check upon the sale of such stores improperly obtained, but they operated, as restrictions always do, to the damage of the vendors, and the Controller of the Navy proposed on this occasion to dispense with them for the sake of improving his bargain. His view of the case was not accepted by other Departments, but he carried his point by a convincing piece of evidence. He put in a tender from a well-known firm offering a bonus of £500 a vessel if sold without the usual conditions. "My Lords" recognised the force of this argument, and the ships accordingly were ordered to be sold "out and out."

Tenders were invited from five different parties, and four of these ventured on biddings. The offers were ornately small. From £1,370 to £1,390 was the bid for a first-rate; from £5,000 to £6,000 for a noble two-decker. There was a little competition, but not much, and ultimately British men-of-war which only a few years ago would have represented a good Channel Squadron were allowed to go for the sum of £87,543. That was all that could be obtained for the thirteen vessels under conditions unusually favourable. If the Admiralty scores had been bought back again out of the purchase money, a good proportion of this amount would have disappeared. We have said that these vessels must have cost at least a million, and we see that five of them are reckoned by an Admiralty official to have cost approximately £818,474. On the same authority the prices offered are compared to represent about 1-16th of the original value, but if we add to this calculation the charges in interest since the first construction it is hard to say what fraction should be employed to express the depreciation of the property.

However, these was not only no help for it, but it was, upon the whole, an advantageous bargain for the public. The net amatteral remonstrances of a Department as so terrible a sacrifice was conclusively met by the Controller-General, "The value of these ships," says he, "may bear no proportion to their cost, and yet it may be sound economy to realise that value. The value of that which we do not want can only be ascertained by the price others will give for it. The retaining in one's possession what is not wanted, what is costly to retain, and what cannot be used without large additional expenditure of money on the article itself, is certainly uneconomical." There was no rebutting such an argument, every step of which could be practically established. The ships were certainly not wanted, for they were utterly unfit for modern warfare. They could only be retained at a very considerable cost, and that is a part of the story which the public will do well to bear in mind. The Controller tells us that, what with wages to ship-keepers, stokers, and engineers, together with wages and materials expended in repairs, every one of these useless line-of-battle ships costs the country £1,000 a year. If we suppose that a frigate costs only half as much, we shall find that this batch of vessels entailed an annual expenditure of £10,000 upon the nation, so that if only £87,000 was gained by this bargain £10,000 a year was saved. As to what it would have cost to render these vessels available for service, we cannot even hazard a conjecture, but we may safely assume that in the majority of cases the bargain would have been a bad one.

An Unexposed Application.—It is greatly to be regretted that, at a time like the present, when we are doing our best to induce the women of India to come forth somewhat from their seclusion and play a nobler part in the business of life than has hitherto been their custom, an English periodical like the Saturday Review should think fit to publish a series of the most bitter satires upon the women of England that pen could well put to paper. It stands to reason that our native fellow subjects, who have naturally considerable repugnance to any change in the social status of their womankind, must be alarmed at the picture that the Saturday Review gives of what civilization and education have done for English women. They will not say that they have some grounds for feeling that if the movement now on foot is to bring their wives and daughters to the same pass, they would be only exchanging a life of simplicity and virtue for one of brilliancy and vice. We have before us a striking proof that this deplorable misconception has either seized upon the native mind or has been seized upon by it—and, be it noted, this is more than a metaphysical difference. A certain native gentleman of Bombay has been at the trouble and expense of having translated and printed in the vernacular that libel on English women—the "Girl of the Period."—Times of India.

The Royal Visit to Ireland.—The London Reviews believes that the Prince and Princess of Wales can really do a vast deal of good to Ireland by promoting the sentiment of loyalty, which will contribute to exist when the shouting is over. It has been often said, and with perfect truth, that there are no people more loyal at heart than the Irish. There are no people so ready to accept a symbol for much more than it is worth. They have fought for kings who have been detested here, and adhered to royal fortunes through thick and thin, when England had neglected and almost forgotten the divine rights of her monarchs. This comes of their emotional nature. The Irish have a wonderful respect for power, and, above all, for race. The fact of kingsand queens coming of old families has, perhaps, as much influence in provoking their enthusiasm as anything else. The Queen has long sadly neglected Ireland in reference to personal visits, which we suppose we are to ascribe to her associations with Scotland and to the miseries of St. George's Channel. We do not venture to say that an excursion of this kind inaugurates, as the phrase is, a new era for Ireland. It will do nothing of the sort; nor should we expect so large a result. Anything, however, that does good to Ireland at this moment does a great deal. If it only serves to distract the country, to make it for a time forget its everlasting troubles, agitations, and squabbles, and put it in a fair temper to read the debates in the House on the resumption of parliamentary business, the Prince and Princess will not have crossed the Channel in vain. It is to be hoped at least that those visits will not be so rare. If Ireland is worth having, there is no cheaper way of attaching her to us than to encourage and foster those romantic characteristics of her people upon which this loyal regard is founded. That it has survived so much neglect is a proof of its strength and vitality. We have no doubt but the visit we now record will still encourage it once more, and help to revive it at a critical time, when it seemed to grow faint from want of something to which to attach itself.
